SEAT OF GOVERNMENT .- We most respectfully suggest to the city authorities to make some provision for the reception of the accumulating excrement of the city. The population has increased so much as to demand immediate attention. The present mode of mixing it with horse manure and spreading it on the adjoining fields to be hardened in the sun, and impregnating the atmosphere with deleterious gases, to be distributed through the city, certainly is not a good arrangement. The present location for the manufacture and traffic in this odious stuff is the worst that could be selected, being on the side of a ra-vine on Seventh, near Boundary street, the streams of water eminating from which convey with them these heavy gases to the heart of the city, assisted by the prevailing northerly breezes. The location of Washington is beautiful in the extreme, surrounded by hills forming a basin diversified by the waters of the Potomac. The view must be seen from a proper point to be appreciated. The peculiarity of its situation requires that the northern environs should not be used as receptacles of filth and offensive matter, carrion, &c., they are the lungs of the city and should be kept pure As the air in the basin in hot weather becomes rarified that of the hills is constantly pouring in and keeping up an equilibrium. When the weather is temperate the C. C. Hamilton, Esq. prevailing breezes from the north and west pass over these environs and carry with them health or disease to the city. Keep the environs of Washington free from the materials and there is not a healthier city in the Re-

If the citizens are willing to permit the present sanitory regulations to remain as they are-considering that some, by the excrement traffic make fortunes, while others are ruined, and it is merely changing from one individual to another, and those who are killed, by the exhalations, merely make room for those more fortunate who have constitutions like buzgards-still, for the sake of the large body of quired to conduct the business, must reside here. These officers are very properly taken from all parts of the nation. Surely they are not to be brought here to be deprived of pure air and made subjects of disease that a few may grow rich on the manufacture and traffic in excrement. Our Legislative halls are filled with men from a distance, who represent the local interests of each part of the Republic, many of them venerable men who have been accustomed to breathe the pure air as nature provides it. To them, a del eterious change, if not fatal, deprives their constituents of the full power of their representation. Foreign ministers and agents as well as individuals, whose presence is required at the seat of Government, and those who come from a desire to see and understand, by personal observation, how so great a Republic is con- ful celebrations of the Fourth. trolled and provided for, and numbers who enjoy wealth and leisure, spend much time in Washington enjoying the refined society of other nations whose connection with the Government locate them here swelling the number of sojourners to many thousands-to protect the health of whom it is a duty as philan-

Self preservation, nature's first law, urges to the effort-preserve our friends and they will protect us. Do not rely on the seat of government being located where nature has, with a lavish hand, arranged so many beauties and substantial advantages, or on the salubrity of the climate which the father of our country and his friends selected. Be faithful to the duty assigned you. See that your sanitary regulations are good. Art is now filling the spaces which nature has provided for the display of the ingenuity of man The legislatives are progressing cautiously but rapidly towards the completion of the government buildings to be worthy of the age and are the monuments that we are to pass on to posterity. They mark the destiny of kings and nobility, and yet no traces of them can be found there. They are the monuments of a self-governed people, born with equal rights and willing to make any sacrifice to preserve their compact. Surely, those who have the privilege of living in such an era will exert every effort to be made that will tend to the prosperity of the seat of government of so mighty a people.

P. S -Since writing the above it has been suggested to us that the Mayor can remedy the nuisance by requiring all the excrement to be removed a reasonable distance beyoud the city limits, and there emptied in trenches of from four to five inches deep, and then sprinkle a little earth over them, after which it will not be offensive until again moved, which should only be permitted during the months of December, January, February and March. By this mode the entire strength of the fertilizing properties will be retained, and agriculturists will have a better article, at a less price, yielding an equal profit to the trader, as all the labor of spreading on together into heaps again will be saved. In deodorizing a portion of the fertilizing properties are destroyed To deodorize properly requires a class of men who can rarely be it. duced to engage in the traffic, hence the stench arising from the deedorizing process as practiced in our city.

Coroner's Inquest -On Saturday last, Coroner Woodward held an inquest, at Beckert's Hotel, over the body of Capt. C W. Bell, alias Casper Kohrman, who was killed in the riot at the Park on the evening of the 4th instant. A post mortem examination was made by Drs. J. H. Jordan and Johnson Elliott, who stated that the fatal wound was inflicted the right lung

About twenty witnesses were examined. whose testimony was very conflicting. It was stated that Wm. Sullivan and John Eggleston had each said they had inflicted the wound; that one of them, Eggleston, we understand, displayed the knife in a tavern on Seventh street; that they went to Eggleston's home, where Sullivan said to Eggleston's brother-inlaw that he (Sullivan) had killed a Dutchman Other witnesses proved the riot, and named some who were engaged in it, among them Daniel and Isaiah Stewart.

The jury, after a long consideration of the of which is, that from the conflicting testimony they are unable to say who struck the fatal blow, but are satisfied that it was done either by Wm. Sullivan or John Eggleston during a riot in which several persons were engaged, among them Daniel and Isaiah Stewart.

Officer Keese explained why the deceased came to take the name of Bell It appears that some years since, when the deceased followed the sea, he was accused of being engaged in the slave trade, was tried and convicted, but subsequently pardoned. He then quitted the sea altogether, and in order to regain his former good name he assumed the name of C. W. Bell.

Many witnesses are yet to be summoned at the further hearing. The two Stewarts have been released on $1,000 bail, the evidence not directly connecting them with the killing of morning, and was conveyed in a weak and

Baker, principal of primary No. 3, of first district, was accepted, and a vote of thanks passed for her attention in the duties of the school, &c Miss Jane M. THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF THE WASHING-TON SEMINARY was held to-day at Carusi's Saloon The annual exhibition of this school, it is well known, is a public event, and never fails to draw a large assemblage. The exercises of to-day sustained the high reputation of this school, and the handsome manner in which the pupils acquitted themselves elicited the warmest approbation from the large audience present. We have only room to-day to give the order of these very interesting ex-

CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH - The Assembly's church Sabbath school spent a delightthat carry death and disease in their train ful day in Clendenin's grove, near the Glen wood Cemetery. At an early hour a large congregation assembled at the church to wit. ness the presentation of a most splendid banner, painted by the renowned artist, Stanley. Mr. W. H. Powell delivered the presentation address, and was responded to on the part of the school by Mr. J. T. Hoover. This banner, costing from 80 to 90 dollars, and richly orna. mented with silver lacing, &c , has on the front an angel, over which are these words, "Our Guardian," and below "Assembly's sojourners, it is hoped the evil will be remedied. The citizens proper, are only a portion of those affected by impure air. Washington being the seat of Government, the officers removed the citizens proper, are only a portion Sabbath School of the Assembly's Church, July 4, 1856. The procession, numbering more than 200, was now formed. First came more than 200, was now formed. First came the pastor, elders and trustees, and a fire band of music, then the school and congregation, accompanied by the children of the Protestant Orphan Asylum, who were present by special invitation. At the grove the band played several national airs-the school engaged in singing, and after prayer by the Rev. Mr. Carothers, the Declaration of Independence was read by Mr. W. M. Robertson, the Farewell Address of Washington by Mr. John E. O'Brien, and addresses were delivered by the pastor, Messrs. Jordan, Radstrake, McLain and others A sumptuous dinner was now enjoyed. After an address to Mr. Clendenin, thanking him for the use of his woods, and giving him three cheers, the school returned to the church and were dismissed. This was one of the most spirited and success-

A RARE CHANCE, INDEED -The administratrix upon the estate of the late John H. King, offers for sale forty five acres of the farm on which Mr K resided, and which he improved so remarkably The part for sale embraces the highest land in the District of Columbia, being four hundred feet above tide water, though within half a mile of the Potomac, all the windings of which, from the Falls to Fort Washington, are within the range of the observer's eye from it It contains a grove of some twenty acres of fine natural timber from which this magnificent view, including the whole of Washington and Georgetown, may be seen.

The tract embraces also a young orchard of about a thousand choice apple and peach trees in full bearing. The buildings on it are a very comfortable cottage, containing six rooms and a kitchen, with sufficient out-houses. The price asked for this property, which lies but about a mile and a quarter from the the great republic of the western world. They Georgetown omnibus stand, is very moderate indeed. The roads leading to it are the finest in the District, and are not toll roads. Altogether this property is really the most desirable for a rural residence in the neighborhood of this city, now obtainable.

THE WESTERN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SAB BATH SCHOOL.—An error having crept into our original account of the celebration of the Fourth by this school, we now present our readers with a correct statement of their doings on that occasion. Thus, they celebrated the day very agreeably at the Gen. Van Ness grounds by invitation from its very generous proprietor, Mr. Thos C. Green, whose magnificent mansion, spacious and beautiful grounds, as well as his attentive and well trained servants, were all assigned to the use of the school and its friends from morning until night. Nor were the usual and appropriate ceremonies entirely omitted. Mr. J. W. Easby read the Declaration of Independence, and appropriate remarks by Mr. Wilson and the Pastor preceded the singing of some suitable hymns. The school was dismissed at sundown at the residence of the superintendent At night, the the ground, drying in the sun and gathering gayer portion of the assemblage adjourned to the house of Dr. Van Patten, where, as on former Fourth of-July occasions, they and and other friends fared sumptuously.

ARREST OF JOHN EGGLESTON .- Last night, a posse of men, detailed from the auxiliary guard by Captain Mills, in connection with a number of the city police, all under the direction of Captain Baggott, went in search of Sullivan and Eggleston, charged with the murder of Captain Bell, alias Casper Kohrman. When near Mr. Samuel Tanner's (Eggleston's brother in laws's) house in the First Ward, they were seen by Tanner and Eggleston, and, finding that they were entirely sur rounded, Eggleston decided to make good his in the back near the spine, severing one of retreat to the jail, and, in company with Tanthe ribs and a principal artery, and entering | ner, succeeded in getting to the jail, closely followed by the posse. The warrant was served by Officer Williamson, and the prisoner committed for a further hearing by Justice Daniel Smith. Eggleston said but little, and was apparently not much affected by his arrest As he left the guard room he remarked "this is a bad business '

DEATH OF A STRANGER -Mr. W. T. Balestier, of New Orleans, arrived in this city by the Southern boat, at six o'clock on Saturday dying condition to the Kirkwood House. The Messrs. Kirkwood, with their accustomed kindness of heart and indifference to trouble or expense, where the calls of humanity are concerned, were unremitting and devoted in their attentions to the dying stranger Dr. Berry and Dr. Miller were immediately sent for, the former of whom remained at the bedside of Mr Balestier until his death, which took place at one o'clock this afternoon. ARREST OF SULLIVAN .- About four o'clock this morning Officer Keese and a detachment of the auxiliary guard, detailed for the pur po e by Captain Mills, succeeded in arresting Sullivan, one of the party concerned in the murder of Bell. Sullivan was traced to his own residence last night, and the premises were closely watched by the guards; this morning they found him concealed in the house. He was taken to the county jail, and committed by Justice Goddard. Sullivan and Eggleston are both young men, neither being apparently over thirty years of age. Eggleston is married, and we believe Sullivan is also. We are informed that Eggleston is a butcher by profession, and Sullivan a carpenter
